ENGAGE PR NAMED ONE OF BAY AREA'S "BEST PLACES TO WORK"

Alameda-based PR Firm Recognized on the Third Annual List of Bay Area Companies

Alameda, Calif., April 17, 2006 — Engage PR announced today that it has been honored as a recipient of the prestigious "Best Places to Work in the Bay Area" award from the San Francisco Business Times, East Bay Business Times, Silicon Valley/San Jose Business Journal and Deloitte for the second time in three years. Principal and owner Molly M. Miller accepted the award during a ceremony at the San Francisco Marriott Hotel on April 5, 2006. Engage PR was also named to the list in 2004.

"Winning this honor twice when Engage is only four years old is a testament to the quality and commitment of our employees and management team," Miller said. "Our goal as a PR agency is not only to provide the best possible support for our clients but also to create a happy and familial work environment for our employees. We're all dedicated to maintaining our distinctive culture through the coming years. "

The complete list and rankings of honorees was published in the April 7 edition of the business publications. Engage PR ranked ninth in the category of firms with 25 to 50 employees; in 2004 it ranked 13th in the category of firms with 100 or fewer employees. Awards are granted based on results of an online survey completed by employees as well as on benefits data supplied by human resources. The survey included questions about employees' satisfaction with their company's work climate and culture, management practices and specific policies, and benefits.

Engage PR offers unique benefits such as a "something healthy" allowance and monthly "kudos" awards, along with a traditional, comprehensive benefits package that includes a 401k plan and medical, dental, and vision coverage. With specialized training programs at each level of the agency, employees are always equipped with the tools that are essential to achieving success in both client and personal goals.
