ENGAGE PR FOUNDER NAMED 2007 WOMAN OF DISTINCTION BY EAST BAY BUSINESS TIMES

Molly M. Miller Recognized as One of the Region's Most Influential Business Women

Alameda, Calif., April 4, 2007 — Engage PR, an award-winning public relations agency, announced today that Molly M. Miller, founder and principal of the Alameda-based agency, has been honored by the East Bay Business Times as one of its 2007 Women of Distinction. The Women of Distinction celebrates 25 women who have broken barriers, served as mentors to other women, and left a mark on East Bay business. The complete list and rankings of honorees was published in the March 30th edition of the East Bay Business Times. In 2006, Miller was honored as a Woman of Distinction by the Silicon Valley/San Jose Business Journal.

The success of Miller's company, Engage PR, reflects her dedication to the surrounding community and a remarkable gift for helping Silicon Valley and greater Bay Area technology firms implement award-winning, strategic public relations campaigns. Celebrating its five-year anniversary this June, Engage PR is driven by Miller's 20 years of successful public relations experience and her extensive educational background in technology and mathematics. The enduring support of a talented and loyal senior team at Engage PR has helped Miller establish herself as formidable PR professional who consistently delivers the results that set her clients apart.

"My thanks to the East Bay Business Times and all the other sponsors for their support of women business leaders in the community," said Miller. "The wide variety of careers represented by the women that were recognized was impressive and very encouraging. I'm honored to be included among such interesting and successful women."

In addition to providing clients with the highest quality service, Miller also maintains a commitment to community service and encourages a spirit of work-life balance in her agency. With her lead, Engage PR regularly participates in quarterly community service projects for various causes including the Oakland Perinatal Council, the Alameda County Food Bank, and the Dorothy Day Berkeley Men's Shelter.
